This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

33d Congress, 1st Session. [HO. OF REPS.] Ex. Doc. No. 113.

GIBBONS AND KELLY.

LETTER

FROM

THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY,

TRANSMITTING

A copy of letter of Messrs. Gibbons and Kelly, relative to an appropriation for the erection of light-houses on the Pacific coast.

June 27, 1854.—Referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

Treasury Department,
June 26, 1854.

Sir: I have the honor to enclose a copy of a letter addressed to this department by Gibbons & Kelly, contractors for building certain light-houses on the Pacific coast, and of a report made to, and resolution adopted by, the Senate upon the subject of their claim for extra work done, expenses incurred, and losses sustained, for which, as they allege, they are entitled to compensation over and above the amount stipulated to be paid by contract according to a proper construction thereof. These claims are not verified and passed upon. The work will not be finished, nor the amount of such claims capable of being liquidated before August next. They amount to $59,434, and the contractors express the wish, and such seems to be the view of the Senate, that the amount should, before the adjournment of Congress, be placed at the disposal of the department, to meet these demands or so much thereof as they may thereafter be able to establish.

Under these circumstances, and without committing the department to the construction contended for, or to any of the allowances claimed, I respectfully submit the expediency of making the appropriation required.

I am, very respectfully,

JAMES GUTHRIE,
Secretary of the Treasury.

Hon. Linn Boyd,
Speaker, House of Representatives.

BALTIMORE, June 16, 1854.

Hon. JAMES GUTHRIE, Secretary of the Treasury U. S.

SIR: By a statement recently made by the board to the committee of claims of the Senate, we observe that the amount of appropriations for the California and Oregon light-houses is insufficient, and that a further sum will be required for the payment of the contractors when they are completed. In order that the department may be enabled to determine upon the additional sum that will probably be required, we enclose a memorandum of our account which, we presume, will be found correct; in a final settlement, we shall be able to verify every item, and to show that they are all moderate and fair in amount. As questions have been raised upon some of the charges, we enclose a report lately submitted to the Senate by the Committee of Claims, in which, views entitled to consideration from a disinterested quarter are presented upon them all.

Should no untoward event occur, official information will be received of the completion of all the work referred to in the enclosed memorandum and of the acceptance of the several structures by the proper government agents before the middle of August. It is of the utmost importance to us that funds should be on hand, applicable to the payment of whatsoever balance may be then found in our favor. We respectfully call your early attention to the subject that the requisite action may be seasonably taken by the department to secure an adequate appropriation before the adjournment of the present session of Congress. Our contract prices were so low, and so many misfortunes have attended the prosecution of the work, that payment of the enclosed account will, after reimbursing our outlays, leave but a very small margin for our time, labor, anxiety, and risks. Delay in payment would subject us to great embarrassment, if not to positive ruin.

P. S. We also, herewith submit the papers recently before the Senate in relation to this case.

As the Senators from California are acquainted with many of the facts of the case, we respectfully ask that they may be consulted before any definite action is taken or recommendation is made by the department.

We have also endeavored to make our immediate representative, Mr. May, acquainted with the facts of the case; so also is Mr. Vansant, our other representative from Baltimore.

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES.—May 29, 1854.

Mr. BRODHEAD, from the Committee of Claims, to whom was referred the memorial of Messrs. Gibbons & Kelly, made the following report:

On the 30th of April, 1852, the memorialists entered into a contract with the Secretary of the Treasury to construct the several light-house structures on the Pacific coast, authorized by the acts of September 28, 1850, and March 3, 1851. In the execution of this contract, sundry questions have arisen between the contractors and the Treasury Department, as to the proper construction of the agreement and the rights and obligations of the parties.

The first question is as to the light-house at San Diego. The words of the act, and which are quoted in the contract, are: "For a light-house at San Diego," &c.; and the contractors undertake to erect said structures "at the several points already indicated, or to be indicated as the sites thereof, by the officers of the Coast survey." These officers selected Point Loma, "a long, narrow strip of land, extending in a southerly direction about two miles and three-quarters from the port of San Diego, eight miles from the town, and on a point about four hundred feet high," as stated by Mr. Harrison, the officer who selected it.

The Light-house Board consider this point is within the scope of the law and the contract, while the contractors take the ground that the discretion of the officers of the Coast survey, in selecting the particular sites, is limited to San Diego, or its immediate harbor. In consequence of this disagreement, the contractors ask to be relieved from that part of the contract, or to be allowed the additional cost involved in the alleged change of site. It is understood that, since the memorial has been pending before the committee, the construction of the light-house at Point Loma has been commenced, and is now in progress. When it shall be completed, and not till then, as it appears to the committee, can the question as to the equity or extent of additional allowance be properly determined.

If the cost of erecting the structure at that point should be found to greatly exceed the amount it would have cost had it been located at San Diego, the committee are of opinion that the contractors would be entitled to a reasonable additional allowance, and it is presumed that the department, under such circumstances, if the means at its disposal were found inadequate, would ask Congress for such appropriations as would enable it to do justice to the contractors. The late acting Secretary of the Treasury offered to release the contractors from building the light-house at Point Loma without claim for damages on either side, but this was after the contractors had sent out their workmen and materials.

The next point is that of the obligation of the contractors to place the lenses upon the towers.

By the original contract, the Secretary reserved the right to introduce the French lens, which he subsequently decided to do; and by a modification of the contract, made on the 21st of May, 1852, the Secretary agrees "that the several towers for said lights shall be regarded as finished when the coping shall have been laid, and their summits duly protected from the weather, and all the interior work beneath it finished according to contract."

The contractors claim that this stipulation exonerates them from any obligation to place the lanterns upon the towers. The Light-house Board express a different opinion, but assign no reasons for their conclusion.

The committee think the stipulation in the contract is clear on this point, and that the contractors are not bound to place the French lenses upon the towers.

The next point in question is the claim of the contractors to be allowed compensation, at the rate paid for the other light-houses, for the transportation of materials from San Francisco to Cape Disappointment, six hundred miles, to Alcatras island, one mile, and to Battery point, eight miles. The charge for this transportation is $11,080.

The contract stipulates that, in case a revenue cutter, or other public vessel, should be proceeding to the Pacific coast at or about the time the materials for said light-houses were ready for shipment, "the same shall be taken on board and delivered to the collector at San Francisco," free of charge to the contractors; and in the event no such vessel was sent, then the government stipulate to otherwise transport said articles by other vessel or vessels, free of freight, to San Francisco; and in case the said articles were transported by the contractors, the government was to pay therefor "the usual and customary freight." And it was further agreed, that the articles so shipped should not be delivered to the contractors at San Francisco, but they were to remain in the possession of the collector until delivered at the several points where the same were to be used, and to which several places they were to be transported, under the authority of the collector, when required, in a revenue cutter of the United States, or other vessel. The contractors, however, reserved the right to ship said articles directly to the several points where they were to be used, without going to San Francisco, if they preferred to do so.

It turned out that no government vessel was proceeding to the Pacific at the time required, and the contractors transported the materials in their own vessel, the "Oriole," and delivered them into the possession of the collector at San Francisco. From this point they conveyed, at their own cost, the materials to Alcatras island, about one mile, and to Battery point, about eight miles. At this point of the transactions, the collector at San Francisco, who held possession of the "Oriole," and whose duty it was, according to the contract, to retain possession of the materials, until they were delivered at the places where they were to be used, "looking," as it is said, "to the difficulty of loading and unloading the barque, and to the great cost of storing the goods at San Francisco," chartered the "Oriole," and "converted it into a storeship, and, when needed, into a transport vessel." Prior to this charter-party, the materials were delivered at Alcatras Island and Battery Point, for which a claim is made; during the existence of the charter-party, the materials were conveyed by the "Oriole" to the Faralones and Monterey, and the vessel being in the pay of the government, no claim is made for that transportation. After the destruction of the "Oriole" the materials were conveyed to Cape Disappointment, Oregon, and for that payment is claimed.

On the arrival of the materials at San Francisco, Mr. Saunders, the collector of that port, believed it to be his duty under the provisions of the contract to take charge of them, and to transport them, "when required" by the contractors, to the points where they were to be used. He accordingly chartered the barque "Oriole" for that purpose. In a letter dated February 26, 1853, he reports the facts to the Secretary of the Treasury, and assigns, amongst others, the following reasons: After stating that there was no revenue cutter, or other suitable vessel to be procured for the purpose, he says: "The materials for all the lighthouses embraced in the contract were on board of the "Oriole," having been brought in her from the Atlantic States. Had there been a spare cutter here, which could have been employed in the service, a very great expense must necessarily have been incurred in landing, storing, and re-shipping the materials, besides the loss by breakage, &c. All this is saved by the arrangement I have made, and the terms of the charter are more economical than, as I found after diligent inquiry, I could have effected elsewhere. It will be seen that I have stipulated that the price of the charter is to cover the cost of landing and delivery," &c.

This charter-party was, however, disapproved by the department, and Mr. Hammond, who had been appointed to succeed Mr. Sanders as collector of San Francisco, was instructed accordingly. After investigating the subject, Mr. Hammond, under date July 28, 1853, thus reports to the department:

[No. 23.] CUSTOM-HOUSE, SAN FRANCISCO,
Collector's Office, July 28, 1853.

SIR: In reply to the communication from the department of April 16, in reference to the charter of the barque "Oriole," I have the honor to forward a copy of a letter addressed by myself to my predecessor on the 1st of June. The actual freight upon the wood-work, (except the joist and rafters,) which is to be transported at the cost of the United States, would not amount to the sum paid for the use of the barque "Oriole;" but if the collector of this port had received the freight of the barque "Oriole" upon her arrival from the United States, and had caused it to be landed, carted, and stored at public expense, as required by the contract, and had made separate agreements for the transportation of the entire wood-work of each light-house to each particular point, as it might be wanted, paying all the expenses for landing and placing the materials in position for use by the contractors, I am very certain that the government would have paid more than under the present arrangement, and much time would have been lost in the completion of the structures.

In view of the fact that the vessel chartered furnishes transportation and storage, and the amount paid for her relieves the government from any expense for labor and cartage, and for the further reason that there is no revenue cutter, or other public vessel, at this port which could by possibility be used to perform any part of this service, I am induced to report, without hesitation, to the department that the arrangement made by my predecessor is, in my judgment, a wise and economical one. and I shall continue it until further instructions from the department.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant.

RICHARD P. HAMMOND,
Collector.

Hon. JAMES GUTHRIE,
Secretary of the Treasury, Washington.

In view of all the facts, the committee are of opinion that the contractors were entitled to the transportation of the materials, from San Francisco to the several points where they were to be used, at the cost of the government; and they see no reason to doubt that the arrangements made by Mr. Collector Sanders, and fully approved and sanctioned by Mr. Hammond, his successor in office, to carry out the stipulations of the contract on the part of the department, were the best and most economical it was in their power to make; nor do they see any good reason why a reasonable allowance should not be made for the transportation of the materials from San Francisco to Alcatras Island, Battery Point, and Cape Disappointment.

It appears that while the "Oriole" was in the possession of the agents of the government, under the charter party above alluded to, with a considerable portion of the light-house materials on board, she was wrecked, and with the cargo entirely lost. The amount claimed for the materials lost on board the "Oriole," while, as alleged, in the care and custody of the government, is $10,558.

It appears that these materials, on leaving the Atlantic port, were insured to San Francisco, and the policy of insurance, together with the bills of lading, assigned to the government as security for money advanced, and it was stipulated in the contract that they should be delivered into the possession of the collector at San Francisco, and that they should not be delivered to the contractors at San Francisco, but remain in possession of the collector until delivered at the several points where they were to be used.

The memorialists claim, that as the goods were in the custody of the government as collateral security for money advanced, under a stipulation to deliver them at certain points, the government should be responsible for loss occurring before such delivery.

At the time of the loss, these materials were held by the United States as collateral, with the agreement to keep them until required to be delivered at different points, and then to deliver them at such points.

The Oriole was on her voyage to Cape Disappointment, and had on board, not the materials for that light-house alone, but also those for Humboldt Bay, Point Conception, and San Diego. All these materials, except what were required at Cape Disappointment, were constructively "in possession of the collector at San Francisco," as required by the contract. The question is raised, whether "ordinary prudence" was used in the care of this property; whether a vessel at sea is a proper place for the storage of goods held in trust.

It is further claimed, on the part of the contractors, that the government having undertaken the transportation and delivery of these materials, without making any exceptions as to the dangers of the sea, are held, as other common carriers would be, in the absence of express limitation, to the full responsibility of underwriters.

Without assuming to determine how far the technical rules of law would apply to the facts presented in this case, the committee are inclined to the opinion that, under all the circumstances, it would be right for the government to assume the loss.

The next claim is for delay in obtaining possession of the site at the Faralones Islands.

The evidence is, that on proceeding to the Faralones, for the purpose of erecting the light-house at that point, with the hands and materials, they found the island in possession of persons who claimed the right to it, and resisted the erection of the work. They appealed to the collector of San Francisco, and after a delay of fourteen days, obtained possession. The loss is stated at $120 per day—$1,680. The Light-house Board think the delay could not have exceeded nine or ten days. (See affidavit of Hugh Hamilton.)

The committee think that the actual and unavoidable loss sustained by the contractors, if any, in consequence of the failure or delay of the government to place them in possession of the site, should be reimbursed.

The committee have deemed it proper to submit to the Senate this general statement of the facts of the case as presented to them, together with their opinion upon the principal questions involved, although they do not propose to recommend that any action be taken thereon by Congress at the present time. They think the application to Congress was premature, if not unnecessary. All the structures are not yet completed, and many of the questions involved are yet, it is believed, within the control and discretion of the Treasury Department. It is presumed that the Secretary of the Treasury, at the proper time, will make such allowances as, under a proper construction of the contract, and within the provisions of the law, may be deemed just and equitable.

Should there be a deficiency of funds at his disposal for this purpose, arising from a misapplication of any portion of the additional appropriation of $120,000 "for the completion of light-houses in California," contained in the act of August 31, 1852, or from any other cause, an additional estimate will doubtless be submitted for the further sum required.

The committee, therefore, recommend the adoption of the accompanying resolution:

Resolved, That the memorialists, Messrs. Gibbons and Kelly, have leave to withdraw their memorial and papers, with the view of submitting them to the consideration of the Treasury Department.

Sir: In compliance with the resolution of the House of Representatives of the 20th instant, "that the Secretary of War be requested to cause to be furnished to this House, as soon as practicable, a copy of Fuller's survey of the Ohio river (made in 1853) at and in the vicinity of Marietta, Ohio, together with any reports, estimates, explanatory notes, or other papers on file in his department, adapted to illustrate the same; also, with a copy of any papers emanating from the city council of Marietta, having reference to the improvement of the Ohio river at that point," I have the honor to transmit herewith a report of the colonel of topographical engineers, containing the information called for by it.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge a reference to this office of a resolution of the House of Representatives of the 20th June.

This resolution calls for a copy of Fuller's survey of the Ohio river (made in 1853) at and in the vicinity of Marietta, together with any reports, estimates, explanatory notes, or other papers adapted to illustrate the same.* Also, for any papers emanating from the city council of Marietta having reference to the improvement of the Ohio river at that point; which information is herewith submitted.

OFFICE OF OHIO RIVER IMPROVEMENTS,
Louisville, November 7, 1853.

SIR: In obedience to instructions from the superintendent of western river improvements, under date of August 2, 1853, "to make arrangements for a careful survey of the harbor of Marietta," &c., I have performed the duty required, and take leave to submit the following report, accompanied by a map of the harbor of Marietta and vicinity:

The surveys were made during the month of August, under my direction, by G. F. Fuller, esq., civil engineer, specially employed for the purpose, and may be relied on as accurate, for the stage of water at the date of making them, viz: about ten inches above the extreme low water of 1838.

By comparison of the accompanying map with that of the survey made in 1838, some material changes appear to have taken place in the bars at the mouth of the Muskingum and in the harbor of Marietta. The bar found at the mouth of the river has sensibly decreased in extent, while that extending downwards from the foot of the island has increased.

I am credibly informed that, since the completion of slack-water navigation in the Muskingum, the amount of sedimentary matter held in suspension in the water passing over the dam has diminished from year to year, so that at the present time but little if any deposite is made at each succeeding flood. The prospects, therefore, for benefiting the navigation of this portion of the Ohio are considerably improved, and the construction of a small wing-dam from the point at Marietta, together with the extension of the present jettee downwards, may render this channel navigable at extreme low water.

From my recent examination of this locality, I find no occasion to alter the views expressed in my communication to headquarters western river improvements, of the 17th June last. That the Virginia channel of the island is the best for the general navigation of the Ohio river is, in my opinion, unquestionable.

A dam thrown across this channel at the head of the island, for the purpose of turning all the water, at a six-foot stage, to the Ohio side, would present a serious obstruction to the coal and other flat-boats, rafts, &c., obliging them to take the latter side of the island, and to risk the passage between two dams at the mouth of the Muskingum; thereby not only lengthening the channel, but also increasing the risk.

In view of the foregoing remarks, I would confine the improvement, at this locality, principally to the immediate vicinity of the harbor of Marietta, leaving the channel on the Virginia side of the island unobstructed; and would, therefore, recommend that the jettee from the foot of the island be repaired, and raised, and extended downwards about 600 feet to A, (see map;) that a wing dam be constructed from the point, (at B,) extending about 500 feet, (to C;) and that the action of the current be assisted by the use of a dredge-boat, which could excavate and remove the sand from the channel to a depth of two feet. The removal of the snags, logs, &c., at the mouth of Duck creek, together with slight dredging at the bar below the mouth of the creek, would also be required. These works completed, would, in all probability, render the harbor of Marietta accessible at all stages of water.

I take leave to conclude this report by submitting an estimate for the improvement of the harbor of Marietta and vicinity, as follows:

ESTIMATE.

For extension and repairs of jettee, 5,500 tons of stone, at 75 cents	$4,125 00
Construction of wing-dam, 6,000 tons of stone, at 75 cents	4,500 00
Services of dredge-boat two weeks, at $350	700 00
Contingencies—supervising, &c., say	675 00
	$10,000 00

Respectfully submitted.

MARIETTA, OHIO, June 6, 1854.

The undersigned, mayor and trustees of Marietta, desire in this way to bring to your notice the importance of aid from the general government in improving the channel of the Ohio river at this point, by removing obstructions at the mouth of the Muskingum, in concert with the board of public works of Ohio, in such a way that the connexion between the two rivers may be uninterrupted.

In the summer of 1844, an arrangement was, as we then understood, made between Capt. John Sanders, of the United States topographical engineers, and Mr. Ransom, then acting commissioner of the board of public works of Ohio, whereby that object would have been attained, but was not carried out, in consequence of the failure of Congress to make the necessary appropriation for the following year.

By that arrangement Mr. Ransom agreed to contract, by wing-dams of gravel and stone, the mouth of the Muskingum to its original width, (having been much enlarged by the washing away of its banks;) and Capt. Sanders agreed to dredge out the bar immediately above the Muskingum channel and at Duck creek, and extend the wing-dam, now running from the island down the stream, in such a manner as to close the present channel, which runs towards the Virginia shore, nearly opposite the easterly bank of the Muskingum; by which means the channels of both streams would be united in one, and the navigation of both rivers at this point would be made good at all stages of the water.

We would further say, that the improvement is of vast importance to the town, as the forming of the bar at the mouth of the Muskingum has entirely changed the original channel of the Ohio, and cut off the town, in a great measure, from steamboat navigation during all the low stages of the Ohio river, and making the navigation of the Muskingum at this point, at the same stages of the water, extremely difficult.

A considerable amount of work was done here by the general government in 1844, and what is now desired is the completion of the original plan.

We have no hesitation in saying, that if the appropriation for the improvement of the Ohio river in the winter of 1844–'45 had not been lost, the plan agreed upon between Captain Sanders and Mr. Ransom would have been carried out the next season, as the boats for removing snags and sand-bars were left, by the direction of Captain Sanders, at this place for that purpose.

If Captain Sanders is now in the city, or near enough to be consulted, we would refer to him for information in regard to the matter, as he understood the whole difficulty at the time, and will, we think, recommend that the plan should now be carried out.

We think that from $5,000 to $8,000 would do all the work in dredging at the mouth of the Muskingum and Duck creek; and we have no doubt that the board of public works of Ohio will cheerfully perform their part of the work, provided the bars in the Ohio river can be removed, and the dam at the foot of the island extended down the stream, as has been stated.

We take the liberty, also, of saying that the Muskingum river is the most important river in Ohio, and this point is one where more freight, and a larger number of passengers, enter the Ohio river than any other town between Wheeling and Cincinnati. Its valley is the largest wheat-producing valley in America.

We therefore ask that the subject may receive your attention at as early a day as practicable, and that you will give such instructions to those who have the matter in charge as will secure the object we have in view.

We remain, very respectfully, your obedient servants,

MARIETTA, June 4, 1853.

SIR: We, the undersigned, a committee appointed by the town council of Marietta to adopt measures to secure part of the recent appropriation made by Congress for the Ohio river, for removing the obstructions at the mouth of the Muskingum river, knowing, that owing to your recent connexion with the public works of Ohio, that you are fully acquainted with the necessity of the work, take the liberty of requesting you to represent to the Secretary of War, or the department that may have charge of the expenditure of the appropriation, the importance of removing the obstructions in the Ohio river near the mouth of the Muskingum, so that at all times the connexion between the two rivers may be uninterrupted. We would represent, that in the summer of 1844 there was an arrangement made between Capt. John Sanders, of the United States topographical engineers, and Mr. Ransom, the acting commissioner of the board of public works for Ohio, when that object would have been attained, but was never carried out, owing to the failure of the appropriation by Congress the next year. By that arrangement Mr. Ransom agreed to contract, by wing-dams of gravel and stone, the mouth of the Muskingum to its original width, (having been much enlarged by the washing of the banks;) and Capt. Sanders agreed to dredge out the bar, immediately above the Muskingum channel, at Duck creek, and extend the wing-dam, running from the island across the present channel to opposite the easterly bank of the Muskingum river, by which means both channels would be united in one, and the navigation of both rivers at this point would be navigable and good at all stages of water. We would represent, that the improvement is of vast importance to us as a town, as the forming of the bar at the mouth of the Muskingum river has entirely changed the original channel of the Ohio river, and cut our town off entirely from steamboat navigation during all the low-water stages of the Ohio river, and making the navigation of the Muskingum at this point, at the same stages, extremely difficult. We have no hesitation in saying that if the appropriation for the Ohio river in the winter of 1844 and 1845 had not been lost, the plan agreed upon between Captain Sanders and Mr. Ransom would have been carried out the next summer, as the boats

DEPREDATIONS ON TIMBER LANDS.

LETTER

FROM

THE SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR,

TRANSMITTING

A report of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, relative to depredations committed on timber situated upon the public lands, and the appointment of agents.

June 29, 1854.—Referred to the Committee on Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

Department of the Interior,
Washington, June 27, 1854.

Sir: I have the honor to transmit herewith a report from the Commissioner of the General Land Office, dated the 24th instant, with accompanying papers, containing the information called for by the resolution of the 31st of January last.

Unusual delay has occurred in answering this inquiry of the House; but the pressure of business upon the General Land Office has been such as to render it, to a great extent, unavoidable.

In communicating this reply to the House, I avail myself of the occasion to say that it is no part of the policy of the department to oppress, or in any manner embarrass, the citizens of the States in which depredations are committed upon the public lands, as will be seen from the accompanying copy, marked N, of the first instructions issued by me on the subject; nor is it optional with the department to seek to prevent such depredations or not.

On the 2d of March, 1831, Congress passed an act providing "for the punishment of offences committed in cutting, destroying, or removing live-oak and other timber or trees reserved for naval purposes," the prohibitions and requirements of which the Supreme Court of the United States has decided are equally applicable to all other kinds of timber on the public lands; and hence it is incumbent upon the Executive, so long as that law thus interpreted remains upon the statute-book, to see that it, as well as all others, is faithfully executed. If its enactments and requirements are unwise or unjust, it is competent for Congress alone to modify or repeal it.

It is proper to add that $3 per diem, during the time actually em-

I also transmit copies of the several reports received from these timber agents, marked C and D.

From the instructions it will be perceived that the timber agents are allowed three dollars per day, and their necessary expenses.

The last clause of this resolution can be answered only by copies of all their accounts, which are accordingly submitted, marked E, F, G, H, I, K, L, and M.

From the foregoing, it will be perceived that the laws on this subject have been executed with an earnest desire to check the immense depredations, with the least possible injury to the community, or even to those who were engaged in such trespasses; and that the utmost liberality consistent with the execution of the law has been extended to them.

The injury inflicted on the government by these trespasses, though very great, is, in my opinion, secondary, in consideration of that suffered by the States. By these depredations, the lands are rendered comparatively valueless, and hence cannot be sold. The government loses the price of the lands, but the State loses the taxes that would accrue for the lands if sold; and, moreover, as those lands are stripped of their timber in advance of settlement, and that timber carried to other markets, there is not sufficient left to supply the necessary wants of a sparse population. Hence the settlement of these States is effectually prevented, and their prosperity marred, if not wholly destroyed.

I have given much and careful consideration to the subject, and cannot see how the laws, as they stand, can be more mildly executed, as shown by the accompanying documents.

All of which is most respectfully submitted by your obedient servant,

JOHN WILSON.
Commissioner.

Secretary of the Interior.

CIRCULAR TO TIMBER AGENTS.

GENERAL LAND OFFICE, January 28, 1854.

SIR: The Secretary of the Interior having committed the whole subject of the timber agency to the care and direction of this office, it is deemed expedient to embody the instructions heretofore given, and those now deemed proper, in a "circular," for full information and convenient reference.

It will be your duty, by every means in your power, to ascertain where waste or trespass has been, or is being committed, on public land, by cutting timber, or removing it or other valuable property therefrom. That you may understand fully and particularly the nature of your duties, I would state that Attorney General Wirt, in an opinion of the 27th May, 1821, says: "Independent of positive legislative provisions, I apprehend that in relation to all property, real or personal, which the United States are authorized by the constitution to hold, they have all the civil remedies, whether for the prevention or redress of injuries, which individuals possess; (see 3 Wheaton, 181;) so the United States, being authorized to accept and to hold these lands for the common good, must have all the legal means of protecting the property thus confided to them that individuals enjoy in like cases. * * * * They are, therefore, in my opinion, entitled to the injunction of waste, by way of prevention, and to the action of trespass, by way of punishment, in like manner as individuals similarly situated are entitled to them."

Attorney General Taney, now Chief Justice of the United States, in an opinion of 22d August, 1833, cites this opinion of Mr. Wirt and concurs in it.

Attorney General Mason, in an opinion of 16th July, 1845, refers to the opinion of Attorney General Nelson of 11th August, 1843, and, in concurring in it, states, that "where the right of pre-emption exists, the settler who has complied with the provisions of the act of 4th September, 1841, has a right of occupancy for twelve months, within which he may perfect his title by paying the minimum price of the land claimed. Like the settlers under the armed occupation act, his right is inchoate only; and he has only those rights of property which are necessary to the perfecting of his title. He may clear the land, build on it, and enclose it with a view to cultivation. For these purposes he may use or destroy any trees which may be necessary, but within these restrictions, and necessary fire-wood, he is confined."

The department has heretofore instructed, in addition to these, that the actual bona fide settler shall use the necessary means for securing access to and egress from his settlement, by clearing roads, constructing bridges, &c.; in fact, that you are not to interfere with the operations of such settlers in clearing and securing their homes. But from the foregoing you will perceive that the mere pretence of settlement, and even the filing of a declaratory statement, will not protect the speculator from just punishment who has adopted these means as a cloak to his waste and trespass, and who will abandon the land when the timber is removed, to enact the same process on other lands.

Wherever you find that cases of this kind exist, you will determine with great care the exact tract, if surveyed, on which the waste or trespass is being committed, and immediately ascertain from the land officers, for the district in which the land is situated, whether it has been entered or not. If it is not entered, or if it has not been surveyed, you will immediately report the waste or trespass to the district attorney or marshal for the district in which the land lies, for such action as may be deemed proper under the circumstances, either at common law, under the opinions above given, or under the act of 2d March, 1831, "to provide for the punishment of offences committed in cutting, destroying, or removing live oaks and other timber or trees reserved for naval purposes." This act you will find fully considered in the case of the United States vs. Ephraim Briggs, 9 Howard, p. 351, in which the Supreme Court decided that that act authorized the prosecution and punishment of all trespassers on public lands by cutting timber, whether such timber was fit for naval purposes or not.

Under no circumstances, however, will you compound or compromise with any such trespassers, or receive any pay or compensation from them, as acquittal or discharge therefrom, or in any other manner; neither will you give any permission to cut timber or otherwise trespass on the public lands, as there is no authority for any such processes; but all such offences against the laws must be prosecuted and tried by the officers duly constituted for that purpose, and, if punished in any manner, it must be according to law.

Should you find such trespass committed on swamp lands, or those which are rendered unfit for cultivation by overflow, you will take no further action than to notify the governor of the State, as all such lands inure to the State under the act of 28th September, 1850.

In all cases of trespass on the public lands, you will be careful to have the matter properly viewed, and the description of the tract established by credible, respectable, and disinterested witnesses, whose testimony can be produced on the trial.

Where you find timber or lumber afloat, or at mills, which you are satisfied was cut from public land, and which, without prompt action, would probably be lost to the government, you will seize it yourself, or cause the marshal to seize it, and, if the circumstances will justify it, you will detain the timber or lumber till a judicial decision be had. If, however, that cannot be had in time to dispose of such timber or lumber, you will consult with the district attorney and marshal, and if the evidence be perfectly clear and satisfactory to you all that the timber or lumber was cut from the public land, you will request the marshal to sell it at public auction after due public notice. In fact, the execution of the duties intrusted to you requires great judgment and discretion, as rules cannot be prescribed in advance to meet every case, and hence you must be governed by circumstances and the advice of the district attorney and marshal, with whom you will consult fully and freely. The main object sought by your appointment is to prevent waste or trespass on the public lands, and the destruction or carrying away of the public timber; and when the evidence of the fact is clear attorney, must be deposited in some one of the United States depositories, to the credit of the judiciary fund, without abatement of any kind, either for your own compensation, the pay of your deputies or assistants, or for incidental expenses of any kind, as required by the act of 1849.

6. To enable you to carry on your duties successfully, therefore, you should send on an estimate before the close of each quarter, of the amount that will probably be required for that quarter, for your own salary, pay of assistants, and incidental expenses.

7. Your accounts will be transmitted quarterly, with a brief report of all the transactions of your agency, as heretofore required.

In charging your own expenses, you will specify the journeys made, giving the names of places from, through, and to which you travelled, the distance between each, and date of each journey—with vouchers in detail for each item. The accounts of your assistants must specify the particular duty on which they were engaged—the necessity for these services—the time devoted to each branch of the duty, and the same details as to journeys and incidental expenses with your own accounts, with a separate voucher for each item of incidental expenses. Your assistants must make affidavit that their expenses were necessarily incurred in the line of their duty.

8. In employing assistants you will select only such as are entirely reliable—limit their services to such times as are indispensably necessary—procure their services on the most reasonable terms, and advise them that such expenses only as are absolutely necessary will be allowed.

9. You will at once enter into bond in the sum of twenty thousand dollars, for the faithful performance of your duties, and that you will deposite all moneys that may come into your hands from any source belonging to the government. You will report each sale as soon as made, the estimated feet of round or hewed timber, and boards, the number of thousands of shingles, &c., disposed of, and the amount received for each description of property. As soon after a sale as practicable, you will deposite all the money received, without abatement of any kind for any purpose, in the nearest government depository. These deposites will be made, until otherwise directed, to the credit of the judiciary fund. In making requisitions, you will invariably state the amount of funds in hand at that time.

Your prompt and faithful attention to these instructions is indispensable to the faithful execution of the trust confided to you, and the promotion of the public interest; and, in all your transactions, you will be governed by the strictest economy compatible with the efficient discharge of your duties.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

——— ———, Commissioner.

CITY OF WASHINGTON, February 12, 1854.

SIR: The undersigned, timber agent for the district of country embracing the State of Iowa, the Territory of Minnesota, and that portion of the State of Wisconsin which lies west and north of the Wisconsin river, begs leave to submit the following as a report of his investigations and actions in the performance of the duties intrusted to his charge by your department.

I have explored all the rivers within the said limits upon which there is timber, liable to trespass; and have found upon the Black river, the Chippewa and Red Cedar rivers, and their tributary streams in Wisconsin, that there has been an extensive lumber business carried on for years, and a number of mills established, which have been mainly supported by waste committed upon the public lands.

Upon the first of these streams (the Black river) I have made full explorations, and feel warranted in saying that more than two hundred millions of feet of pine lumber have been cut and carried away, leaving thereby thousands of acres of land valueless; as it is generally true that pine land is only valuable for the timber. There are on it sixteen lumbering mills, all of which, until within the last year, have been supported by logs taken from the public lands.

Upon the Chippewa and Red Cedar or Menomonee rivers, the same state of waste exists, and has been carried on for a number of years. There are also upon those streams, and their branches, eight saw-mills, which doubtless cut, as an average, more than two millions of feet a year. The amount of lumber cut at all these mills is small compared with the actual waste upon the public lands, as there is now, and has been for years, a most extensive business of "logging" carried on, to supply the lower markets on the Mississippi.

In the State of Iowa I have found comparatively little waste committed, and that chiefly confined to cutting railroad ties; which, however, is carried on to a considerable extent.

In the Territory of Minnesota the pine timber is mainly confined to the Rum and the St. Croix rivers, and their tributary streams; the last of which river divides the Territory from the State of Wisconsin. There has been for years passed an extensive lumber trade carried on here, and the lumber cut from the public lands, until within the last year. There are now upon the rivers named, and the Mississippi within the Territory, nineteen saw-mills, of steam and water power, which are engaged in very extensive cutting, and doubtless consume forty or fifty millions feet of lumber yearly. In addition to this, there has been a large traffic in rafting logs down the Mississippi to the St. Louis and other markets below.

Within the Territory where trespasses have been committed, the lands have not until recently been subject to purchase, and they now are only partly surveyed, and those, or a great part thereof, have been entered within the last few months. I have found here a general disposition and wish to acquire title to the timber lands, by those persons who have heretofore been trespassers; and it is believed that a general desire exists to pay the government an equivalent for the lumber so taken. And as the department is unwilling to charge a tax, by way of "stumpage," or otherwise, for lumber cut, I suggest the propriety of a speedy survey of those lands; so that persons who have money invested in the lumber business may become, as I am inclined to think they desire to be, upright and peaceful producers upon their own soil.

Upon reconnoissance of the streams in my district, I have seized upon all the lumber found in and about the waters, which I have reason to believe has been cut upon the public lands. In some instances I have found it in the hands of persons who have purchased it, and who are not the actual cutters. I have also found that the persons who have thus cut or purchased, claim to have paid my predecessors for the same, or a portion of it, in the way of "stumpage;" and in other instances, in Wisconsin, have purchased permission to cut the lumber. A great portion of the lumber now seized in the Territory, seems to have been paid for in this way of "stumpage," to one of my predecessors in office, Mr. Fillmore: in one instance the sum of one thousand dollars, by one gentleman, for ten millions of feet; and from other persons, sums amounting in all to six thousand dollars, as Mr. Fillmore mentioned to me.

The question of the right of agent Fillmore to make these settlements, and hence of their validity, is hereby submitted to the department, and upon which I wish to be instructed.

The question of the justice and propriety of holding the logs for the United States, after the cutters have once paid a seemingly and perhaps certainly authorized agent, is one I also desire to submit.

I may also be permitted to state, in this report, that the system of collecting "stumpage," which has existed for a few years past, has led to the understanding among the lumbermen that the government required this tax only in lieu of the privilege of cutting timber, and that they had the right to cut upon condition of the payment of the tariff, and to suggest to the department whether it would not be proper, and justice to many men who are well disposed, and who have invested their money and embarked their enterprise under what seems to have been an implied contract, that they be permitted to pay a reasonable and fair price for the timber thus cut by them, as a remuneration to the government for this spoliation of its lands.

These suggestions are, however, only intended to extend to those localities where the lands could not be purchased from the government.

I also report, as a part of my proceedings in the performance of my duty, that I have instituted twenty-one indictments against persons who have been trespassing in the State of Wisconsin; and the late timber agent, Stunson, for being accessary to those trespasses, in having sold to individuals permissions to cut and make waste.

Some efficient means should be devised by the department to prevent the timber which has been seized, and now in the rivers, from being floated and rafted down the Mississippi river. For this end, I suggest the propriety of hiring a steamboat, of sufficient size and force to secure and tow any rafts that may come out of the rivers. I believe it to be the only mode of fully accomplishing this end, and the one which will be accompanied with more certainty and less expense than that of sending men up all the rivers in sufficient force to secure the logs and lumber in the short period allowed by the rise of the waters.

D.

WASHINGTON, February 18, 1854.

On the 14th day of March last (1853,) the undersigned was appointed a "timber agent" of your department, "for the State of Michigan and Territory of Minnesota, in place of Theodore Titus, resigned," and was directed, in a letter of appointment bearing date on that day, "without delay to repair to the scene of labors in that capacity."

The compensation prescribed was "four dollars per day, with an allowance of ten cents per mile to cover necessary travelling expenses," which per diem and travelling expenses were to be paid out of the proceeds of the agency if sufficient for the purpose; and if not, the residue out of the judiciary fund.

The undersigned was informed in the letter of appointment that "the department did not design, by their agencies, to interfere in any manner with any of the legitimate rights of bona fine settlers, intending to acquire title by pre-emption, in cutting timber for the purpose of building, fencing, or the construction of bridges, &c., but to compel the purchase of the lands of the United States by speculators, whose sole object and pursuit was the manufacture and exportation of lumber for their own profit, without compensation to the government or benefit to the country where it was taken;" and, to effect this object, it was directed that the proceedings be by indictment or by seizures, under proper process, of the lumber or timber cut, either upon the ground, at the mills to which it might be carried, or wherever else it could be found and identified as having been taken from the public lands.

Directions were further given, "that immediate notice or information should be given to the United States district attorney or marshal, as the case might require, of the result of any observations or discoveries which might be made, with a particular description of the lot on which the depredations might have been committed; the name of the trespasser and his ability to respond in damages; the amount of the trespasses; the names of the witnesses to prove them; places of residence," &c. Special instructions, also, were given to confer with the United States marshal and attorney, who, it was stated, were required by the instructions theretofore issued by the Solicitor of the Treasury to render every aid and co-operation in their power in furthering the objects of the agencies.

Immediately upon the reception of the appointment with the foregoing directions and instructions, the undersigned repaired to the State of Michigan, and commenced making arrangements for operations connected with the agency in that State. Some delay occurred in consequence of the attorney and marshal, then lately appointed, not having entered upon their official duties; but as soon as they did so, they were consulted as to the plan of operations, and several journeys were made to and from Detroit for that purpose.

To avoid any misconception as to the ownership of the lands upon which trespasses were being committed, as it was believed, extensively, it was deemed proper that the agent should be furnished with maps and plats of the public lands likely to be trespassed upon.

Measures were taken to procure them, and with success, but not, however, without vexatious delays, and at a heavy expense to the government, vouchers for which accompany the amount of the expenses of the agency, appended hereto.

Early in the month of April a journey was made to the eastern shore of Lake Michigan. A small, open boat was procured at Grand Haven, at the mouth of Grand river; and from thence, as far north as Point Betsey, some twenty-five miles north of Manistee river, the shore of the lake, its bays and rivers, were fully explored.

It was ascertained that trespasses almost innumerable had been committed upon the public lands in that section, and great pains were taken to trace out the boundaries of the lands trespassed upon, the names of the trespassers, and of the witnesses by whom the charge of trespass was to be established.

In pursuance of the objects of the agency, it was ascertained that the rich pineries of the eastern shore of Lake Michigan were suffering much more seriously from trespasses than had been previously supposed.

So vast an amount of lumber, timber, &c., was in preparation for shipment, beyond the reach of the government, and the proof of the damages thereby occasioned, that it was thought best to make seizures of such lumber, timber, &c., as was clearly ascertained to have been taken from the public lands.

Seizures were consequently made of a large quantity of sawed lumber, logs, square timber, shingles, and shingle-bolts, at different points, and persons in the employ of the agency were placed in charge of the different lots seized, for the purpose of continuing the proof of the trespasses, shipment, &c., should any attempt be made to carry the same away.

In making the seizures, the following rules were observed: After examinations of the lands upon which depredations had been committed, and ascertaining as nearly as possible what lumber, logs, &c., had been taken from those belonging to the government, the persons in possession of the same were personally notified that such lumber, timber, logs, &c., as the case might be, were claimed by the government, as having been taken from the public domain, and that they and all persons having committed the depredations would be held strictly accountable for such damages as they had occasioned the government, and would be held liable to indictment, conviction, and punishment, in addition, for the trespasses committed.

The employés of the agency who were left in charge of the different lots of lumber, timber, &c., seized, were directed to notify all persons attempting to remove the same, that it was so claimed by the government, and that they would be held accountable, both civilly and criminally, for any portion that they might succeed in carrying away; and no doubt is entertained that such notice was faithfully given in all cases.

The undersigned then returned to Detroit, and the course of procedure thus far was fully approved by the district attorney, and the same course advised for the future.

Maps and plats were procured from the Detroit and Genessee land offices, and other persons, for those districts, and a partial exploration made of the Saganaw country.

On returning to Detroit again, the letter from the department containing the notice of the appointment of Mr. Estes as agent for Minnesota, and also of the reduction of the per diem compensation to three dollars, was received.

A journey was then made to the Saut Ste. Marie land office, and maps and plats of the public lands in that district were procured, and on the first day of June returned to Mackinaw; and having there procured a boat, coasted along the northern shore of Lake Michigan within that district, as far as the Menomonee river of Green Bay, making minute examinations the entire distance. While on this journey, a large number of trespasses was discovered, the proof ascertained, seizures made, and disposed of in the same manner as those before stated.

The undersigned on the 1st of July returned to Detroit, where he received the letter from the department dated June 9, containing the information of the appointment of N. H. Hart, esq., as an associate agent, and to have jurisdiction of the eastern portion of the State, and to whom all maps and plats belonging to that portion were delivered, and what information had been previously obtained communicated.

At this time, the United States district court for the district of Michigan was in session at Detroit, and the attorney had procured the indictment of thirty-seven persons for trespasses committed upon the public lands along the coast, and in the vicinity of Manistee river, in regard to which full information had been furnished the attorney and marshal, at the close of the first excursion to that section. Among the number of persons indicted, there were several masters of vessels who had been wholly engaged during the season in carrying away the lumber, timber, &c., seized as above stated.

Upon consultation with the attorney and marshal, it was determined to make sale of the property seized, if, in the judgment of the agent, the interests of the government would be promoted thereby, the matter being left wholly discretionary with him.

When the fact became ascertained by the trespassers, their employés, attorneys, and agents, that energetic measures were being taken to prevent future trespasses, and when they had failed also to make arrangements by which they would be permitted to regain possession of the lumber, &c., taken from them at a nominal price, as they claimed they had done with former agents, the entire class connected by that interest commenced and continued a systematic warfare upon the agent.

The newspapers at Chicago, it is believed at the instance of the trespassers, their agents and attorneys, contained attacks daily upon the agent, characterizing his conduct as oppressive in the extreme, and the Chicago Tribune went so far as to counsel resistance by force. Meetings were held in the lumber regions, attended by lumber merchants from Chicago in some instances, at which violent harangues were made, and resolutions adopted, the temper of which was well calculated to excite a feeling leading to the most dangerous consequences. Threats were openly made that none of the property seized should be removed from the place of seizure except by the original claimant or trespasser, and under his control; and that any attempt to remove the same on the part of the agent, or any third party to whom it might be sold by him, erty which had been seized unless it had been fully abandoned by the trespassers to the government; the agent believing, from his experience in the matter, that the only way to stop depredations was through the halls of justice.

Soon after the indictments were obtained, the district attorney caused warrants to be issued for the arrest of the parties indicted, and the same were placed in the hands of the marshal for execution. The marshal and agent then proceeded to Chicago, from thence to Grand Haven, thence by the beach of the lake to Manistee, where some eight or ten arrests were made. Among those arrested were Captains Higgie, Clark, and Hammond, masters of vessels then anchored off Manistee, and all of whom expressed a willingness to go with the marshal so soon as temporary arrangements of their business could be made. Time was given them for that purpose; but instead of making such arrangements, an organization was quietly effected by them and their friends to prevent the removal of the persons arrested. Captain Higgie went on board his vessel, the "Whirlwind," and commenced loading her with the lumber which had been seized, whereupon the marshal proceeded to rearrest Captain Higgie. The crew of the vessel, led on by the mate, came forward to the rescue of their captain, at the same time declaring that he should not be taken away under any circumstances. Captain Clark, of the vessel "Irwin," who had also been arrested, now came on board the "Whirlwind" with a portion of his crew and made common cause with Higgie, declaring that no force should take him (Clark) away. About this time a large schooner belonging at some port on the lower lakes, which had been chartered by Mr. Dudgeon to transport the property sold to him, arrived. The marshal made a requisition upon the master and crew thereof for assistance, which was promptly rendered, and the marshal succeeded in retaking Higgie. Clark, in the mean time, escaped to his own vessel, hoisted sail, made off, and went to another port, loaded there with lumber which had been seized by the agent, and then returned to Chicago, where he was retaken, but subsequently discharged by Judge Morris on a writ of habeas corpus. The marshal succeeded also in retaking Captain Hammond, master of the vessel "Barnum," and put him and Higgie on board of the Johnson, a vessel chartered for the purpose, from which they both escaped the next day by connivance with the crew, notwithstanding the marshal was paying $40 per day for the use of the vessel. Exertions were made to rearrest them, but all to no purpose, since no assistance could be obtained from vessels owned or controlled at Chicago.

The marshal now came to the conclusion that it would be utterly impossible to make the arrest of persons in that section without assistance from others than those inhabiting the pineries, or those doing business with them in the lumber trade at the various ports of Illinois and Wisconsin, on the lake, as their mutual interest to continue the trespassing with impunity, made escape or successful resistance quite certain.

Application was then made to the government, by the marshal, for the aid of the United States steamer Michigan in making arrests, which aid was promptly and effectually rendered from time to time during the months of September and October, as circumstances seemed to require.

accumulated during that time. He was lost about the first of October, and with him all his papers and those of two other employés of the agency.

In closing this report, it is respectfully recommended, that the only way to put a stop to trespasses is to prosecute those committing them with the utmost rigor of the law, to final conviction and punishment; and it is believed that the infliction of the penalties of the law, fine and imprisonment, in a few cases only, would entirely and effectually put an end to the depredations, so much to be deplored, upon the public domain.

All of which is respectfully submitted:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, March 14, 1853.

SIR: You are hereby appointed the timber agent of this department for the State of Michigan and Territory of Minnesota, in place of Theodore Titus, resigned, and will without delay repair to the scene of your labors in that capacity. Your compensation will be at the rate of four dollars per day, and you will be allowed ten cents per mile to cover your necessary travelling expenses; all of which will be paid out of the proceeds of your agency, if sufficient for that purpose; and if not, the residue out of the judiciary fund.

The department does not design by these agencies to interfere, in any manner, with any of the legitimate rights of bona fide settlers, intending to acquire title by pre-emption, in cutting timber for the purpose of building, fencing, or the construction of bridges, &c., but to compel the purchase of the lands of the United States by speculators, whose sole object and pursuit are the manufacture and exportation of lumber for their own profit, without compensation to the government or benefit to the country whence it is taken. To effect this object, the proceeding will be by indictment, or by seizure, under proper process,

HEALTH OF IMMIGRANTS FROM FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

MESSAGE

PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES,

TRANSMITTING

Two communications from her Britannic Majesty's minister, relative to the health on ship-board of immigrants from foreign countries to the United States.

June 29, 1854.—Referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit to Congress the copy of two communications of the 26th ultimo and 4th instant, respectively, from her Britannic Majesty's minister accredited to this government, to the Secretary of State, relative to the health on ship-board of immigrants from foreign countries to the United States. This was the subject of my message to Congress of the 27th of April last.

FRANKLIN PIERCE.

Washington, June 24, 1854.

Washington, May 26, 1854.

Sir: I have the honor to transmit to you, in copy, a letter and its enclosure, addressed to her Britannic Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, by the Under Secretary of State of the Colonial Department, relative to the conduct of the master of the American barque "Peytona," which was employed in conveying emigrants from New York to Melbourne, in Australia.

I am instructed to bring this matter under the attention of the government of the United States, as bearing upon an investigation which is understood to have been commenced by a committee of Congress into the general law affecting passengers, and also as affording an opportunity for inquiry, if the proper authorities of the United States should being promised us, we were induced to pay an extra amount of money for passage than was demanded by the vessels leaving the same port; and we were positively told by the owners that our number of passengers would be limited. Expecting this would be fulfilled according to contract, we had no chance of detecting the imposition of the owners until we left the port of New York, February 9. We were taken out of the harbor by a steam-tug, with a portion of the passengers on the barque, some on the steamer, and a few coming in row-boats. All was hurry and confusion; we had no chance of realizing our crowded position until our tickets were demanded from us by the owners and the steamer returned; such being our condition at first, with a continued increase of suffering and privation. Necessity has, therefore, thus compelled us to lay our appeal before you. After being out at sea, we became anxious with inquiry as to how much water we had on board. We called a meeting and appointed a deputation of passengers to consult the captain. He replied, "I don't know, no more than yourselves." Some four or five days after this we examined through the ship; the result was, we possessed 1,300 gallons to supply 170 persons, consuming 125 gallons per day. This convinced us the captain had omitted a most important duty when taking charge of so many souls, in not examining the ship's provisions and water, especially for his own satisfaction, before leaving port. The consequence was, on the fifth day out from New York we were put on allowance of one quart of water per day. From this we had our own cooking to do, in a hot climate, having the equator to cross; turning out night and day on deck for the purpose of collecting water whenever Providence thus favored us; suffering everything without a murmur; the captain getting intoxicated most of the time, exercising neither order nor discipline in the ship; encouraging fighting, and fighting himself; stretching a rope with his own hands for his first mate and steward to fight across; using no effort to mitigate the troubles his own indiscretion brought upon us, but continuing in this manner until our arrival at Bahia, South America, on the 31st of March. He stayed at this port 28 days, making no effort to leave; running his ship in unnecessary debt, without having money or bills of credit to meet the same. We were compelled at this port to use every exertion in order that our ship should leave for her destined port; the American consul advertising for money, offering a first bottomry on the ship, the same not being accepted by any house or firm—establishing in a very decided manner that they had no confidence in the captain, from what they had seen and heard of his conduct at the said port. In this dilemma we consulted together, and found what would be done must be performed by ourselves. As the result was, we subscribed together what we had, and took a bottomry on the ship on the following conditions: the bond, with interest, amounting to about $3,000, made payable six days after our arrival at Melbourne. While at this port, the captain conducted himself in a most shameful manner—so much so, that the American consul intended to put the ship back to New York and return the captain in irons; but through the interference of the passengers he was permitted to proceed, we being anxious to arrive at Melbourne. We were once more disappointed in going through, taking us fifty-six days to make the Cape of Good Hope, where we put in for a further supply law passed by Congress in 1819, the master of any ship arriving in the United States with passengers is required to give in, under oath, a "manifest and report," respecting the passengers on board his ship, setting forth, among other things, "whether any, and what number have died on the voyage," and it is proposed by the United States Secretary of the Treasury to direct the collectors of customs at the immigration ports to furnish the British consuls with copies of these manifests, or lists, as a means of meeting the object adverted to in our report of 23d December last.

At the same time, the Secretary of the Treasury expresses his readiness to adopt any other measures within his legal competency, which her Majesty's minister at Washington might suggest as conducive to that object.

A mere return of the number of deaths on the voyage would no doubt be better than no return at all; but we should be afraid that such a return as seems to be contemplated by the law of 1819, would be of not much service for the main object in view, viz: to enable us to trace the causes of disease, so as to allow of the adoption of precautionary measures for its prevention. The words of the law would seem to require no more than a numerical return, without any specification of sex or age, and obviously without any explanation of the cause of death. This return, therefore, could lead to no practical measure, except in cases of so peculiar a nature as to allow of a general rule being confidently drawn from very small data. But such cases must always be rare.

We cannot, perhaps, illustrate better the necessity for more detailed information, and, indeed, for a searching inquiry, than by stating some of the results of last year's emigration to New York, as we have been able to deduce them from returns of deaths furnished to us by the owners or agents of vessels sailing from Liverpool to that port. For instance, between the 8th and 18th of August, inclusive, there sailed 11 ships. In 3 of these, carrying 1,523 persons, there occurred 152 deaths, equal to 9.95 per cent.; in the remaining 8 ships, which carried 3,961 persons, there were only 7 deaths, equal to 17 per cent. Between the 8th and 20th of September inclusive, 12 ships sailed. In 5, carrying 2,731 persons, there were 193 deaths, equal to 7.06 per cent.; in the remaining 7 ships, carrying 4,383 persons, there were only 8 deaths, equal to 0.01 per cent.; and between the 5th October and 3d November, inclusive, there sailed 24 ships; in 10 of which, carrying 5,925 persons, there were 507 deaths, equal to 8.55 per cent., while in 11 of the 14 remaining ships, carrying 5,304 persons, there was not a single death; and in 3 others, carrying 1,064 persons, there were 14 deaths, equal to 1.31 per cent. We could multiply examples of a similar kind, but these will suffice as illustrations of our meaning.

We have endeavored to extract from these returns some general rule to account for this extraordinary difference in the mortality, but hitherto without success. In the time of sailing, ventilation, numbers, space, food, and even orgin of the emigrants, we can discover no probable explanation of the results. But this, of course, makes us the more anxious that such an explanation should be sought out by diligent inquiries on the spot, at the time of the vessel's arrival. If the United States government possesses no greater powers than are contained in the act of 1819, transmitted by Mr. Guthrie, it cannot be expected that they should at present undertake such inquiries; but as the legislature of New York have recently addressed Congress with a request for further legislation on the subject of passenger vessels, it might perhaps be possible to take advantage of the opportunity to urge the matter on the government of Washington in the name of this country also.

We have, &c.

T. W. C. MURDOCK.

33d Congress, 1st Session. [HO. OF REPS.] Ex. Doc. No. 117.

UNITED STATES ASSAY OFFICE IN NEW YORK.

LETTER

FROM

THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY,

RELATIVE TO

An appropriation for the rent already accrued and to accrue upon the building leased by the government for the United States Assay Office in New York.

July 5, 1854.—Referred to the Committee of Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

Treasury Department, July 3, 1854.

Sir: By the terms of the two leases made with the Bank of Commerce and the Bank of the State of New York, of their respective buildings and grounds for the use of the assay office in that city, rents were reserved in the aggregate of fifty-three thousand dollars per annum. The rent commenced on the 15th September, 1853, when the government was put in possession, and the rent from that time to the 1st January, 1854, together with the rent for the half year just ended, has been paid out of the appropriation of $100,000 made for carrying into effect the provision for the said office.

It was hoped, when the leases were made, that an appropriation would be made, early in the session, for purchasing the said premises, and that but an inconsiderable amount of rent would become payable. The amount already paid is $41,958 33, and a further sum will become due according to the time during which the leases may continue.

The sum so diverted cannot be spared from the object to which it was intended to be applied, namely, the erection of a building, procuring of machinery, tools, implements, furniture, &c., necessary to put the assay office into operation. The building is not yet completed; but the department is satisfied that the whole of the appropriation of $100,000 will be required for that purpose.

Under these circumstances, I have respectfully to recommend that an appropriation may be made, sufficient to reimburse the appropriation named, for the rents so far paid as well as for the rents yet to accrue.

I am, very respectfully,

JAMES GUTHRIE,
Secretary of the Treasury.

Hon. Linn Boyd,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

33d Congress, 1st Session. [HO. OF REPS.] Ex. Doc. No. 118.

CUSTOM-HOUSE AT SAN FRANCISCO.

LETTER

FROM

THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY,

TRANSMITTING

Estimates for the custom-house at San Francisco, &c.

July 8, 1854.—Referred to the Committee of Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

Treasury Department,
July 6, 1854.

Sir: The prospect of an appropriation being made to perfect the title to the site of the custom-house at San Francisco, and of the department being thereby enabled to recommence the work, makes it my duty to advise you that the existing appropriation is wholly inadequate to its completion; which completion, it is hoped, if the necessary amount is provided, may be accomplished in a period from five to eight months from the time the work shall be resumed.

By the acts of Congress of 30th of September, 1850, and 3d of March, 1851, the sum of four hundred thousand dollars was appropriated for the erection of a custom-house at San Francisco; the latter act containing a proviso "that no part of the sum shall be expended unless the same shall complete the work." On the 22d of December, 1851, a contract was made which bound the United States to pay for the building alone the entire sum appropriated; thus leaving no fund out of which to pay contingencies, such as compensation of architects and superintendents, advertising, &c., &c., nor any to pay for the expense of providing a foundation.

The contingent expenses which had been incurred prior to the suspension of the work, and paid out of the appropriation, thereby leaving an insufficient amount to pay for the building alone, amounted to $12,115 09.

Besides this diminution of the sum required to pay the contractor for the building, the following clauses provided for a large expenditure to be necessarily incurred, before the building itself could actually be commenced:

First, one of these clauses stipulated that, if the Secretary of the Treasury should desire the building to be erected on a different site from the one first named in the contract, the additional expense, if any, of constructing the foundation walls on such new site, should be paid to the contractor.

Another clause provided "that the grading and the filling of the site, the necessary drains and sewers, the fencing and gateways, and the sidewalks of the streets, and those required upon the site, will form the subject of separate contracts. It likewise referred to certain sea-walls, which might be found necessary, and which should also form the subject of separate contracts.

The new site having been adopted, the appropriations made by the acts of 21st of July, 1852, and 3d of March, 1853, amounting together to the sum of $65,000, have been applied, or are applicable, to providing proper foundations for the said building. But neither are these appropriations sufficient for that purpose.

In a letter of R. P. Hammond, collector, of 15th of November, 1853, addressed to this department, he estimates the expense of making the foundation as follows:

860 piles, already driven	$25,800
1,167 piles, yet to be driven	50,471
	76,271
Which exceeds the sum appropriated by	$11,271

Major Hammond furnishes no estimate for filling in. He supposes such estimate had been transmitted by the former superintendent and the contractors; but in this he is doubtless mistaken, as no such estimate can be found. In the absence of it, the best conjecture that can be formed, founded upon the scale of California prices and the quantity of filling to be done, is, that it will cost $60,000.

Major Hammond makes a further estimate of the cost of the foundation walls, nine feet in height, as an additional expense of $61,718; but in this I do not agree with him, inasmuch as the contract stipulated for foundation walls of at least eight feet, and higher at the discretion of the superintending agent.

Prior to the transfer of this ground to the United States, by Palmer, Cook & Co., they had conveyed a portion, within the limits of the proposed building, to other parties. Major Hammond, considering it necessary, in order to proceed at once with the work, to extinguish this claim, has agreed with the claimant for its relinquishment to the United States, on payment of the sum of $10,000.

No provision has been made for those objects, except piling and filling, for which a separate contract was contemplated, by one of the clauses in the contract before recited—namely, for sewers, drains. gateways, enclosures, pavement on side-streets and within the grounds, sea-walls, &c. It is impossible to estimate, with any degree of certainty, the amount which will be required for these purposes; but it is, nevertheless, desirable that some provision be made for them, either at the present or next session of Congress. If the appropriation is now made, I would name $50,000 as a proper sum. Some portion of every such appropriation should be reserved for unforeseen contingencies, and ten per cent. has usually been regarded as a suitable proportion. In this case, perhaps $20,000 would probably prove sufficient.

These various sums may be recapitulated as follows:

1. To replace the amount withdrawn from the appropriation of $400,000, and required to pay the contract price of the building	$12,115 09
2. Cost of piling, over and above the $65,000 appropriated for the foundation	11,271 00
3. Supposed amount required for filling in	60,000 00
4. To extinguish private claim, and obtain immediate possession	10,000 00
5. For sewers, drains, pavements, enclosures, gateways, &c., &c.	50,000 00
6. For contingencies	20,000 00
Making in all the sum of	163,386 09

Which, in my opinion, is necessary for the completion of the building.

The letter of Major Hammond, and extracts from the contract, together with a memorandum of the appropriations, are herewith submitted.

I have the honor to be your obedient servant,

JAMES GUTHRIE,
Secretary of the Treasury.

Hon. LINN BOYD,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

CUSTOM-HOUSE, SAN FRANCISCO,
Collector's Office, September 30, 1853.

SIR: In reply to your communication No. 240, of August 28, I have the honor to report that the first location of the custom-house site upon the square bounded by Broadway, Pacific, Battery, and Front streets, was to occupy of that square, not the whole, but only so much of it as is contained between Broadway on the north, Chambers on the south, Front on the east, and Battery street on the west.

The whole block bounded by the four streets first named, is a square of one thousand varas—two hundred and seventy-five (275) English feet. Chambers street is not marked on the map; it is a private street of thirty-four feet in width, opened through the block for the convenience of property-holders. The location of Chambers street, and its width, then gave to the United States for a custom-house site a front on Battery street of one hundred and twenty feet, and on Front street a corresponding front; upon Broadway a front of two hundred and seventy-five feet, and an equal one on Chambers street. Such was the position, and such was the quantity of land to be occupied by the United States, as appears from the memorandum of the contract for charge of all materials arrived and to arrive. As they are received they are now properly stored upon the lot, under charge of watchmen. Their value now exceeds the amount of freight advanced, and will continue to increase with shipments received.

I have no idea that the contractor—now Mr. Smiley, who has bought out Adams—has any expectation to avoid the contract.

He is here, attending merely to the receipt and proper storing of his materials from the eastern States. I have advised the department that, upon the payment of the $25,000, I took from Adams & Smiley a written agreement to waive all claims for damages against the United States arising from this delay in the prosecution of the work up to November 1st, and I can but hope that the letter of myself and Mr. Bridge, of July 28, will bring instruction to prosecute the work to a speedy completion. In this connexion I may be permitted again to express the wish, that, when the department shall determine to go on with the building, an officer of the engineer corps may be ordered to this place to superintend.

The half square fronting on Battery street is fenced in, and is in possession of a small corner on Jackson street. I found a squatter upon it, who will give up, upon payment of a small sum for his improvements.

In respect to the half square fronting on Sansome street, it is covered with buildings and held by parties under the lease from the United States, who have purchased the leasehold from the original lessees or their assignees. I am assured here by Messrs. Palmer, Cook & Co., that it never was intended to release to the United States but one-half the block, and they strengthen their assertion by calling attention to the size of the ground contemplated for the original site and that now released, the latter being the larger of the two by 17½ feet of depth, with a common front. There is nothing of record here at all, to show how much of the block was intended to be released to the United States; and the department not knowing the size of blocks in the city, may have expected to exchange block for block, losing sight of the fact, or not being informed, that Chambers street divided the original block and rendered the portion which they were then to receive actually smaller than that now to be surrendered.

In reference to the cost of getting possession of the half block fronting on Sansome street, I beg to call the attention of the department to the lease made to Theodore Shillaber, in which this half block is comprised.

By the terms of that lease the United States may not demand any portion of the premises for public use before the expiration of five years, and then only upon paying an appraised value for the improvements. To get immediate possession, it would be necessary now to pay for improvements, and also to buy out the leases, to run yet for one year. This cannot be done for less than fifty thousand dollars, and, so far as the erection of the custom-house is affected, is not necessary.

I enclose a copy of a lease from T. Butler King to Thomas B. McCullough and Matthew M. Gillett, for a portion of the half block fronting on Sansome street.

This lease seems to have been made by Mr. King as commissioner, and rent to have been paid to him up to December 10, nearly a month after the expiration of his official duties as collector, and up to the period of his departure from this State.

Subsequent to his departure, and prior to my entering upon my duties, Messrs. McCullough and Gillett were thrown out of possession of this property by some legal process, and the parties now in possession hold under Palmer, Cook & Co.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. P. HAMMOND,
Collector.

Hon. JAMES GUTHRIE,
Secretary of the Treasury.

Extract from the contract made with Adams and Smiley for the construction of the San Francisco custom-house.

"It is also understood and agreed by and between the parties to the foregoing agreement, that in case it should be the desire of the Secretary of the Treasury to change the location of the site of said building from the one described in the foregoing instrument, then, and in that case, the cost of constructing the foundation walls of said building in the place above described shall be estimated by the superintending agent referred to in the foregoing agreement; and should it be found to cost more to erect said foundation for said building upon any other site so selected than it would upon the site mentioned in the above agreement, then the said superintending agent shall estimate the cost of a foundation upon such other site, and whatever excess of cost there shall be necessary to construct said foundation for said building upon such other site than the one mentioned in the foregoing agreement, shall be paid to said contractors by said Secretary of the Treasury Department."

THEODORE ADAMS.
JAMES SMILEY.

Witnesses:
GEORGE HARRINGTON,
JNO. F. HARTLEY.

Extract from the Specifications.

"STONE FOUNDATIONS.—The four exterior walls of the building must each be three and a half (3½) feet in thickness, unless the superintending agent should think it necessary to have a greater thickness, in which case they shall be made not exceeding in all four and a half (4½) feet in thickness. Each and every interior partition wall must be two (2) feet in thickness, and each pier supporting iron columns must be two (2) feet square. The whole of the same must be commenced upon such foundation at such depths as the superintending agent shall require and direct, not less than eight (8) feet below the intended exterior grading of the ground around the building."

Extract from the Specifications.

"DESCRIPTION.—The level of the intended exterior grade or 'ground line' will be given to the contractors by the superintending agent aforesaid. The grading and filling of the site, the necessary drains and sewers, the fencing and gateways, and the sidewalks of the streets and those required upon the site, will form the subject of separate contracts; and also a sea-wall will probably be required across the Front street side of the site, together with bank or other walks upon the Chamber and Broadway sides thereof, the whole of which will form the subject of separate contracts, to be made with such persons as the superintending agent (under authority from the Secretary of the Treasury) elects, without reference to the contractors for the custom-house building, (unless said agent so elects.) N. B.—All dimensions are in English feet, as herein given and as written upon the several plans."

1851. March 3.—"For the completion of the custom-house, three hundred thousand dollars; but no part of this sum shall be expended, unless the same shall complete the work."—(Ch. 32, 2d session 31st Congress.)

1853. March 3.—"For providing proper foundations for the custom-house at San Francisco, authorized by the sixth section of the act entitled 'An act to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the service of the fiscal year ending the thirtieth of June, 1852,' and in addition to the sum of forty thousand dollars heretofore appropriated, twenty-five thousand dollars."—(Ch. 96, 2d session 32d Congress.)

APPRAISERS' STORE—SAN FRANCISCO.

LETTER

FROM

THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY,

ASKING

An appropriation for the erection of an appraisers' store in San Francisco, &c.

July 10, 1854.—Referred to the Committee of Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

Treasury Department,
July 7, 1854.

Sir: I have the honor to enclose copies of a letter addressed to this department by S. J. Bridge, esq., general appraiser for the Pacific coast, and of O. P. Sutton and Philip A. Roach, local appraisers for the district and port of San Francisco. I also enclose a copy of a memorial from the merchants of that place. The first two of these papers recommend, and the last prays, the erection by the government of a building at San Francisco for the use of the appraisers, and to enable them more promptly and correctly to discharge their duties in appraising and estimating the dutiable value of imported merchandise.

It will be seen from the letter of Messrs. Sutton and Roach that the building to be occupied by them from and after the 1st June is, from its location, size, and general arrangements, very unsuitable for the purpose, and, from the letter of Mr. Bridge, that the rent thereon is $21,600 per annum. The latter gentleman estimates the cost of a suitable and proper building, including the expense of piling for the foundation, at $100,000.

As it is probable that the appropriation will be made which is necessary to perfect the title of the United States to the square on which the custom-house is being built, and as there is ample room in that ground for the appraisers' store, I think it every way desirable that it should be built, not only to afford better accommodation to those officers, but to have it nearer to the custom-house, and save the large expense of rent.

I therefore respectfully submit the propriety of making an appropriation of $100,000 for the object; and believing that a better building can be erected, and in less time, by day's labor in San Francisco, than by contract, I recommend that there be authority given to construct the building by contract or otherwise, as the Secretary of the Treasury may deem proper.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully,

JAMES GUTHRIE,
Secretary of the Treasury.

Hon. LINN BOYD,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

WASHINGTON, D. C.,
July 7, 1854.

SIR: On the 15th November, 1853, with Mr. Hammond, the collector of San Francisco, I wrote to the Treasury Department, recommending the construction of an appraisers' store, not exceeding 120 × 45.10, on the northeast corner of the block recently conveyed to the United States by the State of California, for the erection of a custom-house and other government purposes. I wish now to call your attention again to this matter, and to respectfully urge upon the department the necessity of such a structure. The United States now pays an annual rent of $21,600 in San Francisco for appraisers' stores of but limited accommodations, while one of the dimensions above given would be ample for the commerce of the present day, and for the probable increase of many years.

The amount of room required by the appraisers is greater than that used in any other city of the Union, as the character of the imports is such that it not unfrequently happens that every package of a cargo, and not one in ten, as is the case elsewhere, has to be examined. As one evidence of this, I have only to state that during the past year nearly 60,000 packages passed through the office.

The proposed location of the store is an admirable one, as it would give us the benefit of a northern light, which is better than any other, in all respects, for the business of the office, and which is absolutely essential to the proper examination of certain fabrics.

In my letter above referred to, and since, I have estimated the cost of the building at $75,000; but in that amount the cost of piling and preparing the foundation was not included. As the custom-house block is nearly all made ground, it would not be judicious to construct a building of even less importance than the one in question without first preparing the site for its reception, as has been done in the case of the custom-house itself. On this account I wish to revise my former estimate, and to ask of you the recommendation to Congress of an appropriation of $100,000 for said appraisers' store.

In my judgment the structure is called for by every consideration of economy, as the total cost would but slightly exceed four years' rent of the premises now occupied.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

SAM. J. BRIDGE,
Appraiser General of California.

Hon. JAMES GUTHRIE,
Secretary of the Treasury.

APPRAISERS' OFFICE, SAN FRANCISCO,
May 29, 1854.

SIR: You have doubtless been informed of the passage of an act by the legislature of this State, which has been signed by the governor, granting to the United States, on certain conditions, the lot of ground known as the custom-house block, in this city.

In the event of the United States government acceding to the terms proposed in said act, we desire, most respectfully, to submit for your consideration our views in regard to the propriety, if not the immediate necessity, of constructing an appraisers' building on that lot at the earliest practicable moment.

By order of the collector, we shall remove from the store in which we now are, on the 1st proximo, to one which he has selected for us on Sacramento street; but as that building is, from its location, size, and general arrangement, very unsuitable for our purposes, we do not presume that it is his intention to keep us there any longer than may be absolutely necessary. It may be proper to remark, that the amount of room required for appraisements in other cities throughout the Union, is by no means a fair criterion by which to judge of what we require here; because, the heterogeneous or mixed character of our imports, particularly those from China, makes it necessary not unfrequently that we should examine every package borne on the invoice, while at other ports, where more regular shipments are made, only one package out of every ten must be sent to the appraisers' store. As an evidence of this, we have only to state, that during last year nearly 60,000 packages (about 191 per day) passed through this office.

In view, therefore, of the probable increase of the commerce of this city, and of the importance which it will hereafter obtain, we would most earnestly recommend the immediate construction of an appraisers' store on the northeast corner of the aforesaid lot, of the following dimensions, viz: forty-five feet fronting on Battery street, by one hundred feet on the line of Jackson street. Such a building would have all the necessary requisites for the proper accommodation of this department. The location is an admirable one, being in the very heart of the city, and consequently convenient to the mercantile community. The building would be of sufficient size to meet the wants of this office for many years to come. In addition to this, and what is of equal if not still greater importance, it would give us the benefit of a northern light, which is better than any other, in all respects, for the business of this office, and which is absolutely essential to the proper examination of certain kinds of fabrics.

Hoping this recommendation will meet your approval, we are, most respectfully, your obedient servants,

O. P. SUTTON,
PHILIP A. ROACH,
Appraisers.

Hon. JAMES GUTHRIE,
Secretary of the Treasury, Washington, D. C.

San Francisco, May 29, 1854.

Sir: The undersigned, merchants of the city of San Francisco, California, learning that the lot of ground commonly known as the custom-house block will probably become the property of the United States government, and that in such event a custom-house will be immediately erected thereon, would most respectfully beg leave to state that, in our opinion, an appraisers' store ought also to be constructed on the premises as soon as the same may be practicable. Such an arrangement, both the departments being then contiguous to each other, would greatly benefit the merchants having business with those offices, and avoid much of the trouble and perplexity to which we have heretofore been, and now are subjected.

COMPENSATION OF HEADS OF BUREAUS.

LETTER

FROM

THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY,

IN REFERENCE TO

The compensation of the Heads of Bureaus, &c.

July 12, 1854.—Laid on the table, and ordered to be printed.

Treasury Department,
July 8, 1854.

Sir: I have had the honor to receive your letter of the 3d instant, in which, referring to my letter to you of the 24th ultimo, you state you are instructed by the Committee of Ways and Means to request me to furnish said committee with my views as to the proper rate of compensation which should be allowed to the several heads of bureaus of this department.

In reply, I beg leave to submit the following scale:

1. To the First and Second Comptrollers of the Treasury and the Commissioner of Customs, $4,500.
2. To the First, Second, Third, Fourth, and Sixth Auditors of the Treasury, $4,000.
3. To the Treasurer of the United States, $4,000.
4. To the Solicitor of the Treasury, as at present, $3,500.
5. To the Fifth Auditor and the Register of the Treasury, $3,000.

The reasons of these alterations, and the differences of compensation proposed for different offices, may be stated as follows:

1. The Comptrollers and the Commissioner of Customs are officers of review. They severally revise the settlements of the proper Auditors, and their decisions upon all questions of law, as well as fact, in matters of account within the sphere of their several duties, are final. These are higher duties and powers than belong to the Auditors; and for this reason, and with a view to the proper authority to be exercised by them, I consider that their compensation should be higher than that of the officers of primary action and decision.

2. The sum proposed for five of the Auditors is not relatively higher than when their salaries were established; but, besides this fact, their offices are incomparably larger now than they were then, and their duties, from the great expansion of our territory and range of administration, have become more diversified, complex, and difficult.

	Original salary.	Present salary.
The Secretary of State	$5,000	$8,000
The Secretary of the Treasury	5,000	8,000
The Secretary of War	4,500	8,000
The Secretary of the Navy	4,500	8,000
The Postmaster General, only	3,000	8,000
The Attorney General, only	3,000	8,000
The Assistant Postmaster General	1,700	3,000
The Register of the Treasury	2,400	3,000
The Comptroller of the Treasury	3,500	3,500
The Auditor	3,000	3,000
The Treasurer	3,000	3,000
Second Comptroller, created by act of March, 1817	....	3,000

By the above it appears that the salary of the Secretary of War was only $1,000 better than the Comptroller, and $1,500 than the Auditor, but is now more than double of either, and has been nearly doubled; and that the salaries of the Postmaster General and Attorney General, which were the same as the Auditor, and $500 less than the Comptroller, are now also more than double of either, and have been nearly trebled.

It should also be borne in mind, that, like all the other heads of departments and bureaus mentioned in the act of 1799, the labors and responsibilities have largely increased with the increasing business of the country, whilst, with the Treasurer, they are the only officers whose compensations have remained stationary.

Taking the salary of the Secretary of War (the medium between the highest and lowest cabinet officers) as a basis, and assuming that the positions of the Comptrollers and Auditors have not lessened in importance, the ratable increase of the latter ought to be the same.

Respectfully, &c.,

———— ————.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
June 24, 1854.

SIR: I have the honor to enclose a letter, addressed to me by the heads of bureaus of the Treasury Department, asking for an increase in their compensation. The reasons they assign for the application cannot fail to commend it to favorable consideration.

The salaries of the First Comptroller and First Auditor were fixed by the act of 1802, and have never since been changed. The salaries of the other like officers, since established, have been assimilated to these rates. These salaries, in consequence of the rise of prices, the improved style of living, and the higher scale of personal compensation in private business, are far less than when established.

I enclose a statement showing that the compensation of these officers is much below the allowances to the heads of the military bureaus in Washington. They are also lower than collectors of the customs and other officers in Boston, New York, and other large cities, requiring the like cast of qualification and position. I can see no reason for this discrimination to the prejudice of the Treasury bureaus. It is unjust, and must be discouraging. Apart from this, the government has an interest in giving such salaries as will secure the proper characters to fill these important posts, and it is my opinion that the salaries now given are under that point.

It is due to the gentlemen concerned for me to testify to their zeal and devotion to their duties. I feel confident that at no former period has there been more zeal and ability displayed, nor the business of the treasury in a better condition, than at this time.

I am, very respectfully,

JAMES GUTHRIE,
Secretary of the Treasury.

Hon. GEO. S. HOUSTON,
Chairman Com. Ways and Means, House of Reps.

JUNE 15, 1854.

SIR: The undersigned respectfully solicit your co-operation in an effort to obtain an increase of compensation as officers of the government.

The national legislature has seen fit to raise the salaries of civil officers above and below them in position. So far, justice has been done. The reasons for the increase are sufficiently imperative, and would seem to apply with equal strength to bureau officers. The compensation they now receive, although adequate at the time it was established, is rendered insufficient by the greatly augmented expense of living; and while the pay has, in effect, been diminished, the business of most of the offices has greatly increased.

If you, sir, should deem the offices held by the undersigned to be fairly entitled to larger salaries, they respectfully ask that you will suggest to Congress such legislation on the subject as, in your judgment, may be just, reasonable, and proper.

We have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servants,

ELISHA WHITTLESEY, First Comptroller.
J. M. BRODHEAD, Second Comptroller.
H. J. ANDERSON, Commissioner of Customs.
T. L. SMITH, First Auditor.
P. CLAYTON, Second Auditor.
F. BURT, Third Auditor.
A. O. DAYTON, Fourth Auditor.
